SPECIAL PROVISIONS (Cont'd)

6.3 Residential Small Solar Electric Generation - Residential customers that meet Central Hudson Gas & Electric's Photovoltaic Interconnection Standards for Residential Solar Electric Power Producing Facilities of 10 kw or less may install photovoltaic generators with rated capacity of not more than 10 kw to supply their electric load and/or sell electric energy to the Company. Customers must enter into a Residential Photovoltaic (Generation Rated at 10 kw or Less) Parallel Generation Agreement with Central Hudson in order to take service under this Special Provision. Interconnection costs charged by Central Hudson for a dedicated transformer should it be determined to be necessary, shall not exceed $350. The total residential photovoltaic generator load on Central Hudson's system may not exceed 0.8 Mw. Wiring and switches of these facilities may be arranged in parallel so as to permit the flow of current from the Customer to the Company and vice-a-versa. The quantity of energy sold to the Company will be measured by a non-time differentiated watthour meter.

Customers with Residential Small Solar Electric Generators who satisfy all installation and operation requirements will be allowed to combine their purchases from and sales to the Company in a billing period. In the event:

- (i) the amount purchased from the Company exceeds the amount sold to the company (net purchases) in a billing period, the Customer will be billed for the difference at applicable rates specified in this Service Classification.
- (ii) the amount sold to the Company exceeds the amount purchased from the Company (net sales), the difference will be transferred to the following billing period and added to amounts sold by the customer in that period. In that latter period, differences will either be billed at applicable rates as in (i) above, or transferred to the following billing period depending on whether the differences represent net purchases or net sales, respectively.
