Overview

Section 1005, subdivision 13-b, of the New York Public Authorities Law requires that the New York Power Authority (NYPA) reserve up to $8 million of the ReCharge New York Residential Consumer Discount Program to divide among Niagara Mohawk, NYSEG and RG&E to create an Agricultural Consumer Electricity Cost Discount to become effective as of September 2014¹.

The Companies are proposing to create a Residential Agricultural Discount that will apply to farm customers that take service pursuant to a residential service classification. A customer must complete an application and provide the Company with a copy of their Internal Revenue Form - Schedule F-Profit or Loss for Farming, as filed with their Federal Tax Return for the current tax year.

Calculation and Application of Credit

The Residential Agricultural Discount will be calculated monthly based on the monthly forecast sales of each customer who has qualified for and is scheduled to receive a credit. The Companies will reconcile the amounts received from NYPA with the discounts provided to qualified customers. Any amounts as a result of the reconciliation will be added to or subtracted from the Transition Charge applicable to residential customers.

The credit provided to customers shall be the Residential Agricultural Discount multiplied by the customer's billed kilowatt-hours and shall not exceed the net total monthly electric delivery bill for each customer².

Administration and Outreach

To administer the discount, the Companies have developed a draft application form for a customer to complete in order to qualify for the Residential Agricultural Discount (Attachment 1). Forms will be available online for a customer to complete electronically or to print and mail a copy to the Companies. Forms will be available at any outreach venues that the Companies attend, as well as walk-in offices. Customers must complete the application form and provide a copy of the requested Form F by July 1, in order to begin receiving benefits. The Companies are also requiring customers to reapply each year to determine continued eligibility as a farm customer.

The Companies plan to initiate communications targeted to its farm customers beginning in the second quarter of 2014. The Companies are considering multiple vehicles to communicate the Residential Agricultural Discount to its farm customers, including the Companies' websites, issuing press releases and twitter messages, placing messages on residential bills, and providing information to elected officials for use by their constituents. The Companies will share information at appropriate outreach events and partner with the Department of Public Service

² If a farm customer is also participating in net metering, the Residential Agricultural Discount will be applied to any electricity supplied by the Company to the customer after all net metering credits have been applied to the customer's usage.
